

Initiative in Population Research and Center for Urban and Regional Analysis

present

How Immigration, Migration, and Aging in Place are Changing America's Regions and Metropolitan Areas

Dr. William Frey

Senior Fellow, Brookings Institution and Research Professor, Population Studies Center, University of Michigan

Tuesday, October 20, 2009

12:30 – 1:30 p.m.

243 Journalism Building

242 W 18th Ave

Pizza and soft drinks will be served

Center for Urban and Regional Analysis
at The Ohio State University

presents

Interpreting Trends for the Public: How to (Maybe) Avoid Controversy

An open round table type discussion, walk-in style with

Dr. William Frey

*Senior Fellow, Brookings Institution and
Research Professor, Population Studies Center, University of Michigan*

Tuesday, October 20, 2009

3:30 – 5:00 p.m.

Room 1039 Derby Hall

154 N Oval Mall

An internationally known demographer, Bill Frey specializes in issues involving urban populations, migration, immigration, race, aging, political demographics, and the US Census. Bill is one of the foremost chroniclers of contemporary urban trends, and finding him quoted in major newspapers is an ongoing occurrence. His work is both factual and thought provoking; e.g., Regarding the 2008 election – Painting the Mountain States Blue – Virginia and Florida: Bookends of the New South – Race, Immigration and America's Changing Electorate – Regarding the Housing/Foreclosure Crisis – Migration to Hot Housing Markets Cools Off – Housing Bust Shatters State Migration Patterns – regarding Mainline Demography – Older Cities Hold On to More People – Mapping the Growth of Older America – Immigration and Demographic Balkanization: Toward One America or Two? Finally, Bill is well-known for his predilection towards attending a major league baseball game.