

Visual Narratives of School Space and Educational Reform

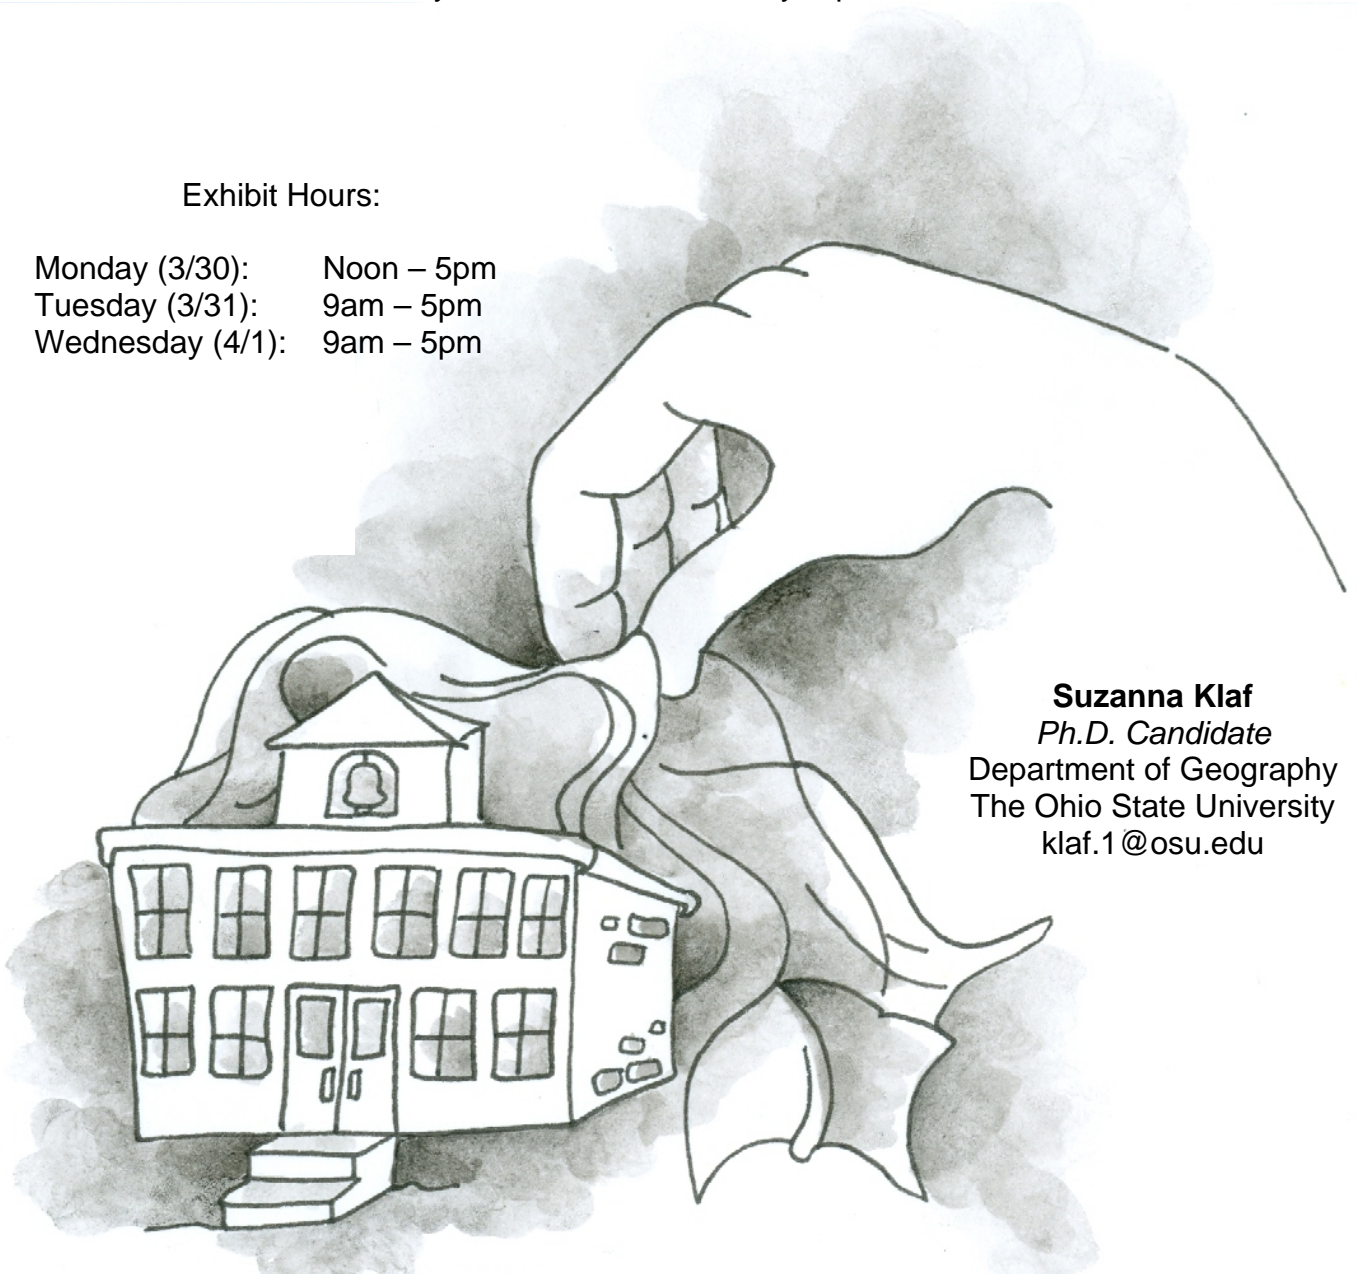

Critical Illustrations by Suzanna Klaf

Hopkins Hall Gallery
128 North Oval Mall

Exhibit runs:
Monday, March 30– Wednesday, April 1, 2009

Exhibit Hours:

Monday (3/30): Noon – 5pm
Tuesday (3/31): 9am – 5pm
Wednesday (4/1): 9am – 5pm

Suzanna Klaf
Ph.D. Candidate
Department of Geography
The Ohio State University
klaf.1@osu.edu

Like artists, geographers both interpret and create spaces. This exhibit features pen-ink-wash and pencil hand drawn illustrations that are social, political, economic, and cultural interpretations of urban school space, educational reform, and inequality. Visitors are encouraged to react and decode the images. Blank comment cards will be available for visitors to express reactions to the artwork and topic of inquiry.

With sincere appreciation of Prudence Gill and the Hopkins Gallery for presenting this work.